

BIG CROWD ATTENDS OPENING OF ANNUAL NORTHERN ARIZONA FAIR

Large Throng Witnesses Exciting Horse Races, Views Wonderful Exhibits and Cheers Intrepid Aviator in Thrilling Flight; Art Gallery Lures Hundreds; Big Display in Mineral Department.

(From Friday's Daily.)

The Fourth Annual Northern Arizona Fair opened its gates to the public at 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon and from then until the sun sank behind the mountains the grounds were a seething mass of humanity, imbued with the fair spirit, carelessly gay and deeply interested in everything that went on within the gates. A perfect day assisted in making the opening a success. The sun shined down softly and neither fans nor coats were necessary for comfort.

With the closing of the court house cornerstone laying ceremonies, people began to flock to the fair grounds, which were left open until noon. Many brought their lunches and ate them under the trees in the park while others came back to town and returned in time to witness the horse races.

Of the many exhibits, the art gallery in the women's building held the greatest attraction for the fairgoers. Landscape scenes, portraits, flowers and marine views painted by America's and Europe's most famous artists are to be seen at this exhibit.

Farmers from every northern county in Arizona are represented in the big display at the agricultural exhibit. Of chief interest is the huge turnip, almost the size of an ordinary pumpkin, which was raised on the Lake Mary reserve, near Flagstaff, by Al Simmons. Pumpkins weighing 40 pounds, a huge pound year raised by C. D. Willard, of Cottonwood, and apples of every color and species are only a few of the many exhibits in this building.

Mohave county decided at the last minute to send a collection of ores to the fair, and this exhibit is not surpassed by any of the other displays. Samples of ore that are almost solid silver are displayed in the Mohave section of the mineral exhibit.

The Consolidated Arizona Smelting Company installed miniature machinery in this tent and the entire flotation process is explained from start to finish. This has proved the stellar attraction at the mineral exhibit.

Children from practically every county in Northern Arizona sent in samples of their best fancy work which are on display in the women's building. Here can also be seen the educational exhibits which were sent in by school children.

The livestock exhibit at the north end of the grounds was as far as most of the visiting cattlemen cared to wander. Registered cattle and horses hogs, sheep and goats, of every breed are on exhibition. Williamson valley has the best representation at this exhibit.

The poultry tent attracts its share of the crowd which wanders in for a casual peek and remains inside a great deal longer than intended. The best there could be found in the poultry line has been placed in attractive pens in this tent.

The culinary department was not open until late in the afternoon and a great many missed seeing the delicious-looking foodstuffs prepared by the women of the county. Prizes will be awarded the winners whose names are to be announced today.

Promptly at 2:30 o'clock, "Doc" Pardee, arena director, announced that the one-quarter mile free-for-all entries were awaiting the starter's word and the exhibits were forgotten by the crowd, which surged into the grandstand.

Tick-Tack, ridden by Orville Oller for "Doc" Pardee, nosed his way into first money in the quarter-mile event, with Blue Eyes a close second. The latter mare got a bad start and was unable to make up the lost ground in so short a distance.

Commodore Passey urged Mack over the pay line in the three-eighths mile cowpony race. Flip led for a while but could not keep up the pace and dropped a few feet behind at the finish.

Hats were substituted for eggs in the egg race and Frank Thompson took this event from a field of three. The 1/2-mile relay between "Doc" Pardee and Walter Cline furnished more thrills than any of the other track events. Pardee got away first and continued with a good lead until the first change. Cline got away first on the second change and kept the lead for the rest of the way. He crossed the finish line several seconds ahead of Pardee.

The one-fourth mile race for cow ponies went to Billy Gardner, ridden by Jimmie Gardner. The distance was covered in 25 seconds, or within 1/2 a second of the time made in the free-for-all event. Billy Spier, with Lucky Boy, took second money.

The turnstake event, substituted for the chap race, was won by "Doc" Pardee. Frank Thompson was the only other contestant.

Vanity Fair got a poor start and lost to Cassandra, ridden by Miss Vera McGinnis, in the quarter-mile ladies' free-for-all. Della Ritter, riding Vanity Fair, passed Elsie Mayes on Fuzzie at the first turn, and was only a few feet behind the winner.

Several Salt Lake horses will be in the races today.

Soaring 2,000 feet in the air, Edward Stinson, El Paso aviator, thrilled the crowd in the grandstand by suddenly darting downward, with the nose of his machine pointing perpendicular, and then turning a complete revolution. Believing that he had lost control of the machine, the crowd raised up as one person, only to fall back again with a relieved sigh.

Despite the tricky air currents Stinson raised from the ground promptly at the scheduled time. After climbing to an altitude of 2,000 feet and looping-the-loop several times, the intrepid aviator circled around the field, darting up, careening, turning the heavy machine around within its own length and then flew gracefully to the ground.

group of children, was awarded to Theodosia, Percis, Helen and Dewey Hamilton.

A group of Indians, drawing a small wagon, on which sat a tepee, won the first prize for the best original float. This group was composed of Ardis Laudenslager, Marion, Milton, Tony and Adella Hatton.

The second prize was awarded to Lester Craig Marks and Mary Lou Ruffner, two tiny children who were dressed in black tights to represent the Gold Dust Twins. They pulled a small coaster bearing a large package of this universally known cleanser and carried a small scrubbing brush in one hand. This pair attracted the most attention and received applause all along the line of march.

The first prize for the best decorated automobile was awarded Miss Blanche Foster whose machine represented a wire chicken pen and bore a banner labeled "Yavapai County Poultry Exhibit." Inside were seated the Misses Kathryn Crawford, Ruth Merwin and Helen Keffer. Mrs. Dr. Roper's car, with Halloween decorations, won the second gaudy and Mrs. Ray Vyne took third prize with a machine decorated with Autumn leaves.

The Races.

Queen of Hearts and Bennie Thompson furnished the most exciting race of the day when they crossed the line in a dead heat in the 1/4-mile free-for-all. Ike Sykes got his mount away first and held the lead to the home stretch when Willie Spier applied the whip to Bennie Thompson and they crossed the line with noses together. Not willing to tire their mounts by another race, the owners agreed to split the $50 purse and decide which was the best horse at some other date.

First money in the 3/4-mile free-for-all was taken by Ike Sykes on Apache Kid with a good lead over Tippey, a Salt Lake entry. Vanity Fair was the favorite but did not enter the race causing many side bets to be called off.

Between races "Doc" Pardee staged contests for the boys. Barney Thompson and Jim Gardner took the money in the three-legged race from a field of almost 20. At least 50 youngsters tried for the $1 prize in the hat race. It was won by Lester Thomas, the smallest lad in the bunch.

Following the pony express race, which was won by Buster Gardner, a greased pig was brought out and nearly every kid on the grounds attempted to catch the elusive swine. Twice it succeeded in eluding the crowd of boys and getting into the grandstand section, much to the delight of the audience. A third attempt resulted in Carl Slater grabbing the squealing porker around the neck and holding it until Pardee and his assistants relieved him and pronounced him winner. The shoe race was won by Reggie Thomas.

The 1/4-mile cow horse race for ladies, and the final event, was won by Della Ritter on Billy Gardner. The Bobblett, ridden by Vera McGinnis, was the only other entry.

Prize Winners.

With the exception of the agricultural, fancy work, school work exhibits, and stock entries, the prizes were all awarded yesterday before the opening of the fair grounds.

In the culinary department the following were first prize winners: Bread wheat, Mrs. W. Marshall; Boston brown bread, Mrs. Budd; doughnuts, Mrs. Wallingford; best fruit cookies, best nut cookies and best other cookies not mentioned in prize list, Mrs. J. A. Crum; pumpkin pie, Mrs. Louise Wetmore; mince, Mrs. Wallingford; apple, Miss Florence Barnes; pound cake, Mrs. W. L. Richards; devil's food, Mrs. Frank Denny; layer cake, Mrs. Elmer Brannen; canned peaches, Mrs. M. Darnall; plum, Mrs. Robert Finney; pear, Mrs. W. Marshall; grape jelly, Mrs. J. A. Crum; apple or crab, Mrs. Pearl Johns; plum jelly, Mrs. C. K. Hartzell; berry jam, Mrs. Pentland; tomato preserves, Mrs. Schooler; special jelly prize, Mrs. E. Fansler; chile sauce, Mrs. W. Marshall; mixed relish, Mrs. W. Marshall; home-made candies, chocolate creams, Miss Ethel Farrell; divinity candy, Mrs. Alva Voge; mixed candy, Mrs.

J. A. Crum. Best exhibit of vegetables in wide mouth jars, Mrs. Schooler, prize one dozen Economy jars; best exhibit of vegetables, narrow mouth jars, Mrs. Best.

The prizes for the mineral exhibit are as follows: Best specimen of gold and silver, H. H. Keays, Groom creek; first premium sweepstakes, Ben Rybon, Lynx creek; special premium, Loma Prieta; first premium sweepstake for lime, Puntene Lime Company; other specials, John S. Jones, Chaparral; D. M. Lacey, and the T. P. mine, for tungsten ore.

The DeLaval won all prizes for cream separators. The Osborne side-hill plow, walking harrow and spring tooth harrow won premium ribbons. The Fairbanks-Morse gas engines took all ribbons in that department and the Bettendorf wagon was awarded first ribbon in the vehicle class.

Aviator Thrills Crowd.

Edward Stinson again thrilled the crowd yesterday by rising to an altitude of 3,000 feet and making three complete loop-the-loops. Stinson raised from the ground promptly at 3 o'clock and after making several wide circles to test the air currents, reached the desired height. Swooping downward, he caught the heavy machine and threw it over backward three times in succession while the crowd loudly applauded.

After performing this daring feat, Stinson again thrilled the grandstand by flying over the top of tall pine trees and narrowly missing the tops. He was in the air more than 15 minutes.

"After I reached an altitude of about 1,000 feet it was so cold that my teeth chattered," Stinson said after landing yesterday. "At 2,000 feet the air is warmer although it is much moister and in some places I thought it was raining."

Three thousand people paid admission to the fair grounds yesterday afternoon at the biggest and final day of the Northern Arizona Fair. A thrilling acroplane flight, bronco riding and fast horse races featured the last day.

Winslow Beats Prescott. In the morning the program started with a football game between the local eleven and Winslow High school on the East Gurley street oval. The visitors defeated the Prescott squad 12 to 0 after a stubborn game which remained anybody's contest until the last quarter.

Thrilling Flights. Edward Stinson made the best flight of the three days' program. Seven successive loop-the-loops were accomplished by the El Paso aviator, which is considered one of the most dare-devil feats ever performed by an aviator in Arizona. Treacherous air currents made the accomplishment much more dangerous than in a lower altitude. Stinson was in the air several minutes longer than in his former flights at the fair grounds.

Race Program Best of Fair. The race program was by far the best of the three-day meet. Tendered made the best time in the quarter mile, covering the distance in 22 1/2 seconds in the consolation race. Iron Dale was a close second. Twenty-four seconds was the best time made for this distance in the previous meets.

Tippey, ridden by Jesse James, took first money in the 3/4 mile, beating Dublin Minstrel to the wire by a nose. Charles J. Harvey, the favorite got a poor start and did not show in the money.

The 2 1/2 furlong, the longest race of the meet, was won by Apache Kid, a dark horse who held out until the home stretch and shot under the wire for first money a half length ahead of Tick-Tack. Ike Sykes is given credit for winning this race.

Billie Spiers, astride Lucky Boy, crossed the pay wire several feet ahead of Nellie Grey in the 1/4 mile cow pony race. Billy Gardner led most of the way but became frightened at Stinson's acroplane and carried his rider over the fence.

The burro relay race for boys proved the most comical event of the week. Jimmie Gleason won the event with ease after Carl Cornelson's first mount refused to remain on the track and wandered into the field.

Walter Cline won for the second time the 1 1/2 mile relay race. Buster Gardner kept him moving until he lost his saddle in the last lap. "Doc" Pardee lost out when one of his horses broke loose and ran into the aviation field.

Many left before the wild horse race. J. Carroll, on Blazer, won first and only place as the other three horses turned and ran in the opposite direction, and did not finish.

Mildred Douglas furnished a few thrills by riding a broncho, said to be among the meanest in Northern Arizona.

The first prize in of $5 in the girls' chicken race was taken by Alice Coates. Katherine Bianconi caught the second chicken thereby enriching herself $3. Other field events for the amusement of the children were held before the races.

The majority of the crowd took advantage of the last opportunity to see the exhibits and the tents were filled the greater part of the day. In the mineral exhibit the judging was completed and the following prizes awarded the Mohave county display: Sweepstake, for the best mining exhibit from that district; ribbon for best mining exhibit from Wallapai and Mohave district; sweepstake, best individual mining exhibit, from the Arizona Butte Company; best, exhibit, concentration product; and four special ribbons for various ore exhibits.

In the milk and cream contest E. G. Weil, of Miller valley, was awarded the first prize for the richest pint bottle of milk; G. Mariani, of the New Swiss dairy, second, and W. C. Boren, third. The Prescott and Acme dairy took first prize for the best cream.

SMALL MINE DEAL. Thomas and Alexander Burrell, miners quite well known in this section, have closed a deal for their placer mines in the Eagle Tail range of Yuma county, receiving a cash payment of $1,450, and a royalty of 15 per cent. The buyers are from Red Bluff, Cal., and are experienced placer miners. A Stebbins dry concentrator is to be the method used in treating the product. The Burrells are to remain at the camp.

Tom Campbell Says:

"The office of governor affords an opportunity for real public service. If I did not believe that, in this office I could render a real and genuine service to the people of this State, I would not now be a candidate."

Make a Yavapai County Man Governor

Tom Campbell was born and raised in this county. The people have tried him out in various public offices and he has never been found wanting. They know that as governor his record will be as clean and unblemished as during the seven years he served as assessor of this county. His talents will find broader scope in the office of governor and he will be of real service to all, not any one portion of the people of Arizona. "Fair to labor, fair to capital, but firm with both, is his motto.

His election means the elimination of class hatred and an unprecedented period of industrial prosperity; a humane prison policy but not a gushing, sentimental one; the enforcement of the laws and not their abrogation at executive whim; the abatement of useless commissions and employees; efficiency in public service; a lower tax rate; no unnecessary extra sessions of the legislature at a great cost to the taxpayers; a square deal for everybody, whether poor or rich.

Loyalty to her favorite son by Yavapai County will result in his election as governor November 7th. Work and vote for him. A vote for Tom Campbell, election day, means a vote for the redemption of Arizona.

COWARDLY CRIME ACCOMPLISHED ITS PURPOSE

J. E. BAYLISS, SHOT FROM AMBUSH, IS FATALLY WOUNDED; ROBBER SECURES BIG SUM.

(From Tuesday's Daily.) Additional particulars of the deplorable affair which occurred near Mayer on Saturday, were learned yesterday. The unfortunate man shot down and afterward robbed, was J. E. Bayliss, who was taken to the Consolidated hospital at Humboldt and his condition yesterday evening was reported as hopeless.

He was shot from behind while walking on the road out of Stoddard, the bullet entering below the left shoulder and ranging downward coming out on the right side of the breast. The motive of this cowardly deed was robbery, and the criminal effected his purpose, securing over $270 in cash, and about $2,000 in Wells Fargo & Co. certificates. Mr. Bayliss after being shot was in a semi-conscious state, and was able to give only a vague account of the hold-up. After recovering sufficiently to be able to walk he continued on foot to Mayer, and was picked up after traveling for over three miles. He has a supposition of who is guilty, but the person accused was able to prove an alibi. No arrests have been made, accordingly the vicious criminal will probably escape. Nothing is known of the family connections of Bayliss. He had been in that section for a few months and is quite well known in Prescott and Jerome.

For quick and artistic job work, the Journal-Miner is the place.
